The annual Homecoming-Parents' Day celebration for 1990 will be held Saturday, October 20. Please see the reservation form on the back page of this paper.

Reunions are being planned for the classes of 1940 and 1965 to observe golden and silver anniversaries. Any class is welcome to sponsor a reunion. Our alumni office will assist you where possible.

For Saturday afternoon the planning committee has slated three events. There will be a golf tournament beginning at 10 a.m. and a tennis tournament in the afternoon. Reservations for either of these events must be made with Mrs. Bell in the Alumni Office no later than September 28. A reservation form for these events is on the back page of this paper.

In addition the Jazz Ensemble which usually performs in the evening will present a program in the afternoon. This will permit alumni to hear the band and also to attend the banquet in the evening.

Presentations of alumni awards at the Homecoming Banquet is planned for 6 p.m. at the Potomac Motel with a social hour and dinner slated for 7 p.m.

Please make your reservations for the banquet not later than October 13.

Board Buys 400 Acres

The University of West Virginia Board of Trustees have approved the purchase of the 400-acre lower farm in Mineral County by Potomac State College in the amount of $350,000.

President Joseph M. Gratto announced the purchase of the farm in June following the Trustees' monthly meeting.

Potomac State has leased this property from the Mineral County Commission for the past 34 years. The lease had been placed in jeopardy three years ago when the county commissioners considered selling the farm as an industrial site.

After a meeting with Dr. Gratto and other college officials, who explained the importance of the farm to the agricultural program, the tentative industrial development plans were delayed to allow time for the college to seek funding to purchase the property.

The commissioners agreed at that time to assist the college in its purchase by allowing the rent of $4,000 annually to be applied toward the purchase price.

Dr. Gratto noted that the sale entails two staff requirements to verify the programmatic need and to verify the appraisal before the transaction can be completed.

He explained that the funds already exist for the purchase of the farm in the Trustees' miscellaneous capital acquisition reserve account. He felt the board was rather kind since it will take about half of that reserve to complete the purchase.

Dean Marks 25th Year

Nancy M. Hockensmith was honored by her peers for 25 years of service to Potomac State College at the PSC Social Club's spring dinner. She is currently Dean of the College and professor of biology.

Dean Hockensmith came to the faculty in 1965 as an instructor in biology after receiving both undergraduate and graduate degrees from West Virginia University. Before her present position as Dean, she had attained the rank of Professor and served as chair of the Division of Natural and Physical Sciences and Mathematics. She has also served as interim chief executive officer and coordinator of athletics.

She holds membership in numerous professional organizations including AAUW, W.Va. Academy of Science, Phi Delta Kappa, Delta Kappa Gamma, and Alpha Epsilon Delta. She is a past president of the W.Va. Association of Academic Deans.

A member of the Keyser Rotary Club, she is also commissioner of the W.Va. Women's Commission, holding appointments from three governors over the past seven years.

Scholarship Established For Jordan

A new scholarship fund, the C. Edwin Jordan Scholarship, was established at Potomac State College last year.

Given in memory of C. Edwin Jordan, Sr. by his wife Virginia and his sister Margaret Jordan Reeves, the award is to be given preferably to a student from Mineral County, W. Va., or Allegany County, Md. Second preference is to a student from the eastern panhandle of West Virginia.

The recipient of this scholarship must have maintained a 2.0 or better average in high school and must maintain a 2.0 or better average while attending Potomac State College. Financial need as well as family income and the number in the family will be considered. There are no restrictions as to field of study.

The Potomac State College Foundation, Inc., administers the trust fund with only the income from that trust to be used for the award. The Financial Aid Committee at the college will select the recipient.

The late Mr. Jordan was an alumnus of Potomac State College, Class of 1933. He had been quite active on the board of directors of both the Potomac State Alumni Association and the Potomac State College Foundation. He was serving as vice-president of the Foundation at the time of his death and had also been vice-president of the Alumni Association for several years.

Alumni Invited To Help

The most prestigious award given each spring at the annual Recognition Day convocation is the Outstanding Student Award. Established by an alumnus who wished to remain anonymous, the fund was to have been supplemented by a bequest in his will. However, because of illness, the donor was unable to complete his project.

We are inviting alumni and friends to contribute to this fund so that we may give a substantial cash award to the winner each spring in addition to having the student's name engraved on a plaque in the Administration Building.

Donors should make their checks payable to the PSC Foundation and mark on it Outstanding Student Award. Please send it to the Alumni Office at the college.

Fund Established

The fields of computer science and office technology are rapidly changing, and the rate of change far exceeds the ability of the State of West Virginia to provide the funds needed to keep pace. In April the board of directors of the Potomac State College Foundation recognized this critical need and established a new fund, the Computer and Office Technology Fund.

This fund will generate revenue to meet the special needs of these areas. Specifically the fund will provide: (1) monies for faculty development and special training to enable faculty to keep pace with the changes in these fields; (2) monies for acquisition of special equipment to support the computer and office technology curricula; and (3) support for special student experiences such as seminars, guest speakers, field trips and cooperative learning projects.

An important requirement of West Virginia's plan for economic development is the ability to provide a well-trained work force. By having access to the latest equipment and methodologies, Potomac State College will be able to offer the training and education that will be so critically needed in tomorrow's jobs.

If you wish to contribute to this fund, please make your check payable to the Potomac State College Foundation and designate the Computer/Office Technology Fund. Send your donation to the Alumni Office of the college.

This fund was established for individuals who are not influenced to make gifts to any of the present areas of contribution. Gifts may be made in honor of or in memory of an individual. Listed below are those for whom a gift has been made to the PSC Foundation since the inception of this fund:

Attention Former Potomac State College Band Members: You Are Invited To Be Part of the Homecoming Band, Oct. 21

For the past several years former band members have joined with the Potomac State College to perform at the Homecoming football game. Dr. Charles D. Whitehill, director, has announced that this year an effort is being made to expand the group and invite all former band members to participate.

The group will probably rehearse at 11 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 21 prior to the game that afternoon. In most cases members will need to bring their own instruments and lyres. However, in the case of percussion and tuba, the college may be able to furnish some instruments.

Please return the form below as soon as possible to Dr. Charles D. Whitehill, Potomac State College, Keyser, WV 26726.

Students Offered Wide Range Of Cultural Events

Students at Potomac State College will have a wide range of cultural offerings for 1990-91 through a continuing cooperative agreement with Highland Arts Unlimited, the local arts council.

Opening the season on September 13 is AMIGO, the Mexican version of the Young Americans with a program of song, dance, and instrumental music.

On October 15 the long-running Broadway musical CAMELOT will be presented. The production will feature 26 performers and an orchestra of 13 musicians.

Larry Logan, international star of the harmonica, will appear November 13. He was selected by the US State Department to represent the United States on the President's International Cultural Exchange Program.

For its Christmas offering Highland Arts has selected "Mr. Pickwick's Stories for a Christmas Evening" which is a holiday celebration in song, story, and dance.

The nationally known Pennsylvania Boys Choir comes to Keyser on January 17. Their repertoire includes sacred and secular music, including opera, musical theater, and American folk music.

Michael Martin, a West Virginia, performs in the character of Mark Twain on February 12.

A country, traditional band from Glenville has been booked for March 4. The Sample Brothers are well-known in the state.

Legislature Leaves PSC/WVU Ties Untouched

State legislators took no action during their 1990 session to sever Potomac State's ties with West Virginia University as had originally been proposed in a study done for Governor Caperton.

The decision to allow Potomac State's long-standing association with WVU to continue came after a study and report conducted by the President John F. Workmeister, Jr., Cumberland, MD, Class of 1960, welcomed a capacity crowd of alumni, faculty, and friends to the annual banquet of the Potomac State College Alumni Association, Saturday, October 14, at the Potomac Motel.

Highlighting the evening activities was the presentation of awards. Professor Kenneth F. Haines, Class of 1950, a past president and current secretary-treasurer of the Association received the Distinguished Service Award from Mrs. Elizabeth P. Hanlin, Class of 1942, representing the Alumni Association. In her remarks she noted that Prof. Haines is the senior faculty member with 38 years of service, adding that it was her privilege to serve with him for 25 of those years.

She attributed several characteristics the awardee, including efficiency, loyalty, love of Potomac State, and professional service. "Tonight we honor a true-hearted son of Potomac State with gratitude for his service, love and devotion to his alma mater."

In his response Prof. Haines paid tribute to several former faculty members for the excellent training he had received prior to transferring to West Virginia University. He mentioned David Nuzum, Elizabeth Atwater Alexander, Leonard G. Withers, Norman Rodgers, Dean K. S. McKee and President E. E. Church. He singled out Dr. Nancy M. Miller as his "master teacher, counselor, and friend, the walking definition of a lady."

Haines observed, "Many people talk about the good old days at Potomac State, and they were good days. But these are good days too. Of course the College has changed. If we had not, it would mean that we had not kept up with the dynamic changes in education that have come through technology."

Noting that the basic commitment of the college to the student as its greatest concern has never wavered, he affirmed, "I am every bit as proud to be a member of this college faculty tonight as I was when I joined in 1952. We have a dedicated faculty who work hard to give us the good reputation we have earned."

He also introduced two guests, Mary (Kidner) Holleran and James T. Holleran, Class of 1950, his life-long friends, who had established a scholarship in his honor in 1988.

Dr. Glen O. Workman, Class of '49, professor of biology at Allegany Community College in Cumberland, MD, presented the Alumni Achievement Award to Dr. Melvin L. Brown, also of Cumberland.

"In my opinion," said Workman, "Dr. Brown is the leading authority on the identification of plants in the tri-state area and one of the leading authorities in the eastern United States."

Workman said that Dr. Brown is truly a special man who is a believer in setting high standards and then working hard to meet them.

In his response Brown relived his days at Potomac State, recalling classes in 1936 with Ervin "Ikey" Dayton, Robert Patterson, Dr. Howard, Coach Lough, as well as President Church and Dean McKee, both of whom were new that year. He expressed his thanks to the Alumni Association for the award and also to Potomac State for giving him a good foundation on which to build his later education.

Among Dr. Brown's guests were his wife, the former Mary Blackburn, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Reynolds, Cumberland; Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Boggs, Sr., Westernport; Twila Sprague, Oakland; Glenola Wilson, Kitzmiller, MD; and Mrs. Duke Barger, Class of 1915, Cum-

West Virginia Department of Education and the Arts Secretary Dr. Stephen Haid and his staff.

"This is the outcome we had desired," said President Joseph Gratto. He noted that since the mission of the college has been reaffirmed by the legislature, the college can now explore working with the South Branch Technical Center in Petersburg and the James Rumsey Vocational/Technical Center in Martinsburg to develop or upgrade some of their vocational programs to college status.

During the study members of the community as well as faculty, alumni, and students spoke emphatically in favor of remaining with the University.

Facilities Changing

The old college powerhouse, later the chemistry building, then the psychology building and most recently the Language House, will take on new life this fall when its renovation and conversion into a dispensary is complete.

The upper level of the building will be a handicapped - accessible facility with a waiting room, nurse's office, and three modern examining rooms. The lower level will be reconfigured to provide a waiting lounge and two offices for counselor use.

Since the dispensary is currently located in Memorial Hall, one suite of that facility will be recovered, providing 4 additional residence spaces for men. Reynolds Hall, which has been operated as a coed residence for some years, will become an all women's residence once again, increasing women's residence space by 32, but reducing men's spaces by a similar number, a few of which will be recovered by the removal of the dispensary from Memorial.

Commencing 1991, renovation of Memorial Hall will be undertaken. Over a several year period, the heating system in Memorial Hall, which serves both Memorial and Davis will be replaced with a more modern and compact system. This may permit both of these facilities to be air conditioned so that the campus can be used more extensively in the summer for conferences, elder - hostels and other appropriate activities. A side benefit of the project will be the recovery of the large utility area, which occupies half of one floor of Memorial. This area can then be converted to residence space, adding 12 or more handicapped - accessible spaces.

Other on - going campus capital investments this year include a summer project to paint the exterior trim on college buildings, further upgrading of the campus lighting, new roofs for the dining hall, maintenance shop and Academy Hall, and the development of a parking lot in the area adjacent to Lough Gymnasium and the water tower. This lot belongs to the City of Keyser.

Haid Urges Graduates 'To Share'

West Virginia's Secretary of Education and the Arts Dr. Stephen E. Haid cited the state's need for health care workers, teachers, scientists, entrepreneurs, and political leaders when he urged the Class of 1990 at Potomac State College to "share your knowledge, dedication, and gifts in West Virginia."

Haid was keynote speaker for the college's 87th annual commencement, Sunday, May 6.

Dr. Joseph M. Gratto, president of the college, presided over the conferral of 108 degrees, including 68 Associate in Arts degrees, 39 Associate in Applied Science degrees, and 1 certificate program. He was assisted in the presentation by Professor Nancy M. Hockensmith, dean of the college.

In his introductory remarks, Dr. Gratto noted that Haid was a high school and college teacher before his appointment as Secretary, and Haid was twice awarded Teacher of Year at Parkersburg Community College.

In his commencement address, Haid remembered the advice of his former college professor who told graduates to do well, produce wealth and achieve your lifetime goals; and do good, share your prosperity. Haid said that "with the foundation you have from this fine institution, you can do both good and well."

Haid added, "You can improve the quality of life in this great state."

Greetings from West Virginia University were extended by Assistant Vice President for Curriculum and Instruction Russell K. Dean.

WVU Honors Dr. Gates

Dr. Henry L. Gates, Jr., Class of 1969, formerly of Piedmont, WV, was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters at West Virginia University's commencement exercises in May.

Dr. Gates' scholarship in African-American Literature is internationally acclaimed as a major force in the development of a new literary canon. He rediscovered Harriett E. Wilson's 1859 book, "Our Nig," believed to be the first novel published by a black person in the United States. In doing so, he extended the scope of the African-American literary tradition by more than 30 years. His book "The Significant Monkey: Towards a Theory of Afro-American Literary Criticism," won the 1989 American Book Award. He is the general editor of "The Norton Anthology of Afro-American Literature" which is to be published in 1992.

Following a year at Potomac State Dr. Gates transferred to Yale University, from which he graduated summa cum laude as a history major. He won a Mellon Fellowship which allowed him to continue his education at Cambridge University in England. There he earned the master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees in English language and literature, the first black American to do so.

Upon leaving Cambridge, Dr. Gates taught English and Afro-American Studies at Yale. He then moved to Cornell, where he became a full professor at the age of thirty-three, and was later named the W.E.B. DuBois Professor of Literature. This fall, he will join the faculty of Duke University as the John Spencer Bassett Professor of English.

He has received many awards including the American Book Award, the Anisfield-Wolf Book Award in Race Relations, and the Candle Award from Morehouse College in Atlanta. Besides these awards, he has been featured in several magazines including "Time" and "People" in recognition of his work.

Last year Gates, his brother Dr. Paul Gates, an oral surgeon, and their father, Henry Gates, Sr., established the Pauline Coleman Gates Memorial Scholarship at Potomac State College. Dr. Gates credits his late mother with instilling in him the love of learning and of literature.

College Hosts Shakespeare Conference

Potomac State College hosted the 17th annual conference of the Shakespeare and Renaissance Association of West Virginia at the Church-McKee Arts Center April 20-21.

Scholars who delivered papers at the conference came from West Virginia University, Marshall University, Bowling Green University, Southern Connecticut State University, Duquesne University, Duke University, the University of Delaware, the University of Akron, and Wilkes University.

The keynote address of the conference, "The Subversiveness of Shakespeare," was given by Professor Sam Schoenbaum, internationally famous Shakespeare scholar.

Professor Schoenbaum has written numerous books and articles, including two standard biographies: "The Lives of Shakespeare" and "William Shakespeare: A Documentary Life", both for Oxford University Press. He recently wrote the program notes for the London production of Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice", starring Dustin Hoffman.

He taught at Northwestern University for twenty years and is currently on the faculty of the University of Maryland, where he is director of the Center for Renaissance and Baroque Studies. In 1989 his international reputation led to an invitation from Chinese scholars to deliver lectures at Fudan University in Shanghai and the University of Beijing.

Enrollment Up

Enrollment for the fall semester of 1989-90 and the spring semester was up significantly from recent years.

Charles Via, director of admissions and records, reported a head count of 1,206 students. The freshman class numbered 699.

The spring semester saw 1,091 students enrolled. Via noted that prospects are good for continued growth this fall.

Scholarships Remember Husband, Family Members

Mrs. Anna T. Hartman, Keyser, has made a substantial gift to the Potomac State College Foundation, Inc., for the establishment of health science scholarships. One award will be known as the Ray Ralph Hartman Memorial Scholarship and additional awards will be granted under the name of the Bulgarian Family Memorial Scholarship.

The Hartman Scholarship honors the memory of Mrs. Hartman's husband while the Bulgarian Family Memorial Scholarships are given in memory of Mrs. Hartman's father and mother, Trifon and Vasila Tzitzoff, and three sisters Despa Dimoff, Aglica and husband Nikola Stanoeve, and Stefka and husband Asen Matove.

The Ray Ralph Hartman Memorial Scholarship will be given to Mineral County residents. First preference is that the award go to a pre-medical student. Second preference is for the other careers in health sciences such as dentistry, nursing, physical therapy, etc.

The Bulgarian Family Memorial Scholarships will have the same guidelines as the Hartman Memorial. The scholarships will be equal in value to the tuition and fees at Potomac State College. Need for financial aid must be demonstrated.

All scholarships will be awarded based on income from the Foundation Trust Fund. The board of directors of the Foundation will determine the amount of the awards annually.

Honors Program Enrollment Up

The Honors Program at Potomac State had its highest enrollment during the past year since its inception in 1986. Twenty students were selected to participate on the basis of their academic qualifications.

The College Honors Committee is responsible for inviting students to take part in the program. Students do not take courses in addition to their regular schedule. Instead, an honors class is substituted for the regular class. Last semester three honors classes were taught in art appreciation, political issues, and biology.

The program gives selected students an opportunity to take more challenging courses. Class size is limited to 5 to 10 students in order to encourage interaction between students and professors.

Some of the classes meet at the home of the instructor, where on occasion students are guests for dinner. Another bonus of the program is special trips planned for the participants. Last year students visited Washington, D.C. and this spring they traveled to New York City.

Capsule Review Of Last Year's Sports Records

The Catamount football team, coached by Angelo Luvava, Class of '73, won four and lost six for the 1989 season.

Eight sophomores were invited to play in the Coastal Conference All-Star game in Murfreesboro, NC.

For the second time in four years a linebaker at Potomac State was selected as a second team All-American by the National Junior College Athletic Association. Ted McGonigle, a 6'2" 235 lb. sophomore from Del Castle High School in Wilmington, Delaware, received the honor.

The women's basketball team turned in a won 7-lost 15 record. Head Coach and Athletic Director Larry Bolyard attributed the poor season to having only 7 players and playing a very crowded schedule.

The ladies' volleyball team, coached by Kathy Dickel won 7, lost 24 and tied 2.

The men's basketball team had its best season in several years. Coached by Cary Woods, Class of '81, the team won 17 and lost 8, making them eligible for the Region XX Tournament, their first appearance since 1986. Catamount teams must win at least 70% of their games to be eligible for tournament participation.

The Catamounts suffered a first round loss to Hagerstown Junior College, 95-90.

Hall Of Fame Inducts 5

Five new members inducted into the Potomac State College Athletic Hall of Fame on March 31-brings the total number of honorees to 24.

Inducted were Dale Ramsburg, Class of 1962, baseball coach at West Virginia University; William A. (Huck) Miers, Class of 1933, Keyser, retired educator; Virgil C. (Bus) Bailey, Class of 1926, Naples, Florida; Glenn

C. (Tink) Smith, Class of 1931, Piedmont; and Dr. Russell Helmick, Class of 1924, Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

Professor Larry Bolyard, coordinator of athletics, served as master of ceremonies for the banquet, and also presented Ramsburg his plaque.

Dale Ramsburg is the winningest coach of any sport in West Virginia University history (391-281-8). He began his coaching career at the University in 1968. In 1988 he was chosen Atlantic Ten Coach of the Year.

His teams have won three conference championships and NCAA Tournament berths and recorded eight consecutive 20-win campaigns with two straight 30-victory seasons, which is a West Virginia collegiate record.

He is a Morgantown Touchdown Club Achievement Award winner and also received the Charleston Downtown Coaches' baseball coach of the year award in 1989.

Miers participated in football and basketball both at Potomac State and later Davis and Elkins College from which he graduated. He coached basketball at Piedmont High School from 1942 to 1970 and compiled a 412-192 record.

His teams won six Potomac Valley Conference championships, finished second in the state tournament four times and captured the state championship in 1966.

He was selected PVC coach of the year in 1964 and again in 1965, and was named Dapper Dan Coach of the Year twice. Honored with an outstanding service award by the W.Va. Coaches Association in 1966, he is also a member of the Tri-Towns and Davis and Elkins halls of fame.

Football Will Remain At Least 1 More Year

Dr. Joseph M. Gratto, president of the college, announced in May that intercollegiate football will remain on the athletic schedule for 1990. The longer-term fate of the program will depend on two factors: (1) the team itself must improve its off-the-field behavior immediately and permanently to the point where football players are indistinguishable in deportment and demeanor from their peers; and (2) the college faculty must develop a plan to remedy the pattern of wide-spread academic deficiency which has developed among football players.

In March of 1988 President Gratto requested a study of the college's athletic program. The study, completed in August 1989, by the Athletic Council, revealed that the academic and social adjustment of football players collectively was deficient when compared to other students.

President Gratto consulted with a number of groups representative of the various constituencies of the college to determine interest in maintaining varsity football.

The Visiting Committee voted 5-2 with two abstentions to recommend termination of the program. The Administrative Council advised 4-1 its discontinuance.

The faculty voted as follows: 16 for elimination; 20 to continue the program with corrective action; 1 to retain as is; and 3 abstentions.

The Athletic Council and the Alumni Association's directors voted to retain football. A lack of consensus was noted in the polling of the Classified Employees Council and the Resident Hall Assistants.

In saying that he had decided to permit the Catamounts to play the 1990 fall schedule while the aforementioned studies pursued, Dr. Gratto stated, "If the tendency to egregious behavior which has been characteristic of all too many football players should continue, I will terminate the program without further consultation."

V.C. "BUS" BAILEY, Class of 1926, was accompanied to the Athletic Hall of Fame ceremony by (l-r) Dr. & Mrs. Donald W. Bailey, son and daughter-in-law, Shirley Ingersol, step-daughter, and his nephew Keith Bailey.

mac State, serving as captain of the basketball team in 1925 and 1926.

He was an assistant football coach at Emory and Henry College from 1928 until 1942 and was that school's athletic director from 1939-42, coaching basketball for the same time period. He was tennis coach at the University of Evansville from 1946-48.

Smith, a stand-out at Piedmont High School (1926-28) was a forward on the Cata-mount basketball team. Later he played for Coach Sleepy Glenn at West Virginia University. Following his collegiate career, he was a guard on the Westvaco semi-pro team from 1929-1937.

He coached the sixth grade basketball team from 1946-76. His teams won two state championships and finished second five times.

Smith was chosen West Virginia Sportsman of the Year in 1983. He was previously honored by the Piedmont Lions with the Community Service Award in 1973.

The fifth inductee, Dr.

Russell Helmick, was unable to attend the banquet. A graduate of Davis High School, he was a member of the 1924 West Va. state doubles championship while at Potomac State.

A pioneer in educational television research, he directed the counseling program at Louisiana State University, developing a national reputation as a teacher, scholar, and consultant to a number of local, state, and federal agencies.

Each inductee was presented an attractive walnut plaque with his picture and engraved data about accomplishments.

College To Add 2 New Sports

Two additions to the Potomac State College intercollegiate sport program will occur this year.

The college will field a baseball team commencing in the spring of 1991. Interest in baseball has remained high among students in the decade since the sport was discontinued. Good baseball prospects are available in the region and competition is readily available at nearby colleges.

In addition, the equestrian team will be upgraded from an activity to an intercollegiate varsity team. The club has competed at the intercollegiate level for the past two years.

DR. RUSSELL HELMICK, Baton Rouge, La., one of the five inductees to the Potomac State College Athletic Hall of Fame, was unable to attend the event.

affairs director at the College, a post she held for 25 years. Under her guidance the Alumni Association underwent a reorganization and grew from a file of 400 names to well over 9,000. The Potomac State College Foundation was established shortly after her arrival. She helped greatly in nurturing it to more than $500,000 in investments at her retirement.

A Keyser native, she is a graduate of both Keyser High School and Potomac State College. After her marriage to Dr. Robert T. Coffman, she moved to Baltimore where she attended Strayer Business College and held positions as a secretary, bookkeeper, and an office machines instructor. She also served as a substitute organist through the Peabody Choir Bureau.

Mrs. Coffman, who marked her silver anniversary on the staff at her retirement, served under five administrations at the College. The dream of establishing an alumni office and a foundation to serve Potomac State, came to fruition in the presidency of Dr. Ernest E. Church (1936-64). Continued support was given by President Todd H. Bullard (1964-70); Executive Dean Dr. Harold C. Doster (1970-73); Dr. A. Gordon Slonaker (1973-77); and Dr. James L. McBee, Jr. (1978-87).

When Mrs. Coffman began her duties, the Alumni Association was $650 in the red by virtue of awarding scholarships without funds. When she retired the Potomac State College Foundation awarded $36,000 in scholarships to 56 students.

Her personal efforts were immediately apparent with the Alumni Association participating in Homecoming parades for the first time, holding colorful luncheons at Homecoming in the Kelly Armory, decorating display cases with alumni memorabilia, as well as her warm reception of alumni who came to visit the campus.

Without the aid of a computer she, along with other Association officers, had to address mailing labels to over 9,000 former students each time there was a mailing. She also always prepared the "Alumni In the News" section of each NEWSLETTER, which required her researching stacks of newspapers for items about alumni. She also wrote the sections dealing with births, deaths, and weddings.

Then there were the many hours standing up at Keyprint Printing Company to collate NEWSLETTER pages and to do folding.

When the U.S. Post Office announced the use of ZIP codes as mandatory for 3rd class mailings, she not only had to prepare a ZIP code file, but also add this information to the main file, the alphabetical file, the geographical file, and the maiden file.

It was also her responsibility to find volunteers to help fold, sort, and bundle the NEWSLETTER according to postal specification for third class matter.

In addition to her office duties, she was organist many years at convocations and commencement exercises and served on occasion as accompanist for the Potomac State Singers.

She continues to be organist for the Trinity Lutheran Church in Keyser, which recognized her last year as having served in that capacity for over 50 years. She also served as director of both the Junior and the Young People's choirs at the church for many years.

Her two daughters Nancy Lee Howard, Newport News, VA, and Barbara Gellner, St. Marys, WV, are alumnae of the College as well as West Virginia University. Mrs. Coffman's brother Richard Sliger, former president of the Alumni Association, resides in Frederick, MD. She has five grandchildren, Christopher and Merrilee Howard, and Jamie, Bobby, and Matt Gellner.

The Alumni Association and the Foundation were very fortunate to have a dedicated alumna of the College give herself unselfishly to promote the work of both groups and to have them functioning well when she retired.

On behalf of all the boards of directors who have served both the Association and the Foundation, as well as countless alumni whose lives she has touched, we say thank you for a job well done.

R. Gustafson

Medicine, has achieved national recognition as a pediatric heart surgeon.

A Keyser native, he is a graduate of that high school. After graduating from Potomac State in 1970, he transferred to West Virginia University where he earned a bachelor of arts degree in 1972. He was graduated from the WVU School of Medicine in 1976.

He was among the first inductees to the Keyser High School Legion of Honor in November, 1989. At PSC he was president of Sigma Phi Omega Honor Society, secretary of Circle K and a member of Roth Military Honor Society. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, arts and sciences honorary, at West Virginia University.

An article in the Fall 1989 issue of "Outreach," a publication of the University's School of Medicine, quotes the chairman of pediatrics, Dr. William Neal, "There is no finer children's cardiovascular surgeon in the world. He has outstripped his mentors."

Dr. Gustafson, not yet 40, has been out of medical school only 14 years, and 7 1/2 years of that time has been devoted to residency training and a fellowship. By 1984 he was board certified in both surgery and thoracic surgery. More than 1,000 children have benefitted from his skill. He is a Fellow in the American College of Surgeons and belongs to several other medical associations.

He is nationally recognized for his success rate in repairing a congenital heart defect known as hypoplastic left-heart syndrome, the same defect that brought the renowned Baby Face case to the attention of the world. Only two other centers in the United States are known for this surgery, and they are in major metropolitan areas. Dr. "Gus" does about 175 surgeries a year.

Since 1986 he has presented papers throughout the country. Last November he received the President's Award of the Southern Thoracic Surgery Association, to which he belongs, for the best paper presented at the group's annual meeting. In addition, his papers to the West Virginia Chapter of the American College of Surgeons have been awarded First Prize three times.

Dr. Gustafson began a general surgery residency at the WVU Hospital in 1976 following his graduation from medical school. He was chief resident in 1980-81 after which he began a thoracic surgery residency.

By June of 1983 he had finished the program and was off to the Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston for a pediatric cardiac fellowship. There he worked with Dr. Aldo Castaneda, who originally devised the surgery for palliation of hypoplastic left-heart syndrome.

He has served on many committees at West Virginia University. His presentations to various medical societies number well over fifty. With other colleagues, he has written fourteen scholarly papers and has written chapters on his specialty for medical textbooks.

Dr. Gustafson, noting that Dr. Castaneda was the only surgeon in the United States performing the operation at that time, said, "I went to Boston as a kid who had never been any place except West Virginia. What I found was that I could hold my head up and could do as good a job as anyone from the Ivy League or graduates of the best world programs."

Dr. Gustafson continued, "I was born in West Virginia. I went to school in West Virginia, and I have a strong desire to succeed in West Virginia. I decided to do my part to convince the country that West Virginia can do good things."

Dr. Neal credits Dr. Gustafson's success not only to his technical credentials but also to his persistent attention to detail. Neal says of him, "He is very patient with families and seems to get along well with the children and the parents."

Gustafson says he loves what he is doing. "I think that's what sustains me. I have never viewed it as a job. Rather it is fun, intellectually demanding and challenging. Most of all I enjoy the opportunity to help children and parents through difficult times."

He and his wife Lisa Lynn have three children, Jeffrey, Lindsey and Ashley.
